THE DISPUTE BETWEEN ENGLAND AND PORTUGAL. DISPLAY OF CHILDISH ANIMOSITY BY THE PORTUGUESE.

Lisbon, January 18 .- The Daily News Correspondent writes:- A Indicrous incident took place yesterday. A grocer having displayed in his window a box of Bright's biscuits a body of naval cadets entered the shop and telling the proprietor that the maker of those biscuits had said in the British House of Commons that the Portuguese were a nation of slave-dealers they turned the biscuits out into the atreet. In several towns British flags bought in the shops were publicly burnt. This 'survival' of the auto-da-fé is combined with a spasmodic Republicanism which somehow does not resemble the Parisian article. The papers are giving lists of merchants who go on dealing with Bugland, and of others who are ceasing mercantile relations with her. I should not be surprised to hear of the mob going to sack the shops of the former. Several Englishmen have been frightened into changing their nationality, among them Mr King, organist of the Eng-

It must be said that he has been living here for 20 years, and was given the option of naturalisation or dismissal.
